

COMMUNION-MASS-EUCHARIST (AS PER THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH OF SATAN)

Yeshua gave wine and un-leavened bread during the Pass-over meal (Seder supper), as a symbol of His blood and body. He did this ANNUALLY as part of the complete “Seder Supper”, not to be taken out of context and called a sacrament.

What we commonly call a sacrament and do daily, weekly or monthly in many churches is not what Yeshua intended, especially when done heathen like.

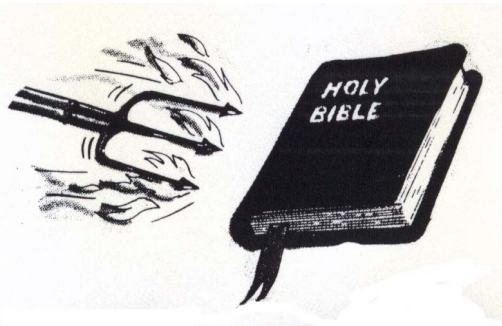

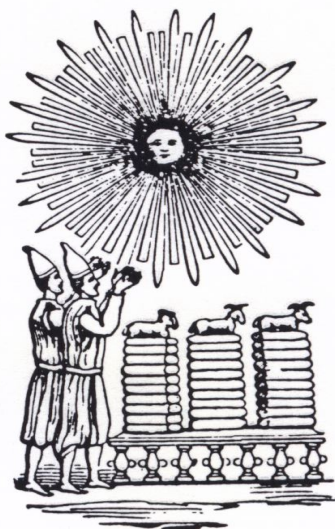

The Egyptian Temple priests used what is now called “transubstantiation” thousands of years before the Christian era. These heathen priests claimed to have magical powers which enabled them to change their great Sun god “Osiris”, into a wafer. In the religious ceremony that took place in the pagan temples the people would eat the wafer (their god), to nourish their souls. The I.H.S. symbol they used stood for their pagan Egyptian trinity: Isis, Horus and Seb.

During the mass, the priest magically turns the wafer into the body, blood and deity of Christ. Who gave him this power? The boys in religious costumes in the Vatican.

Then Roman Catholics are ordered to worship this wafer because it has become God Himself. Failing to do so means the Catholic is damned. Big joke? NO! They are deadly serious!

In Holy Mass the Roman Catholics claim the priest has the power to actually change the wine into the blood of Yeshua and the unleavened bread into His body. This practice is called “transubstantiation”. This is too ridiculous a thing to try to even imagine, but we’ll try to follow it up. When Yeshua offered the wine and bread He was of course doing it symbolically as a small part of the entire feast of Pass-over. If it were His body and blood then how could He be there. Yeshua, Himself said He would drink of the cup later on when He returns. If this was truly blood, then He would have gone against His own rules of eating unclean foods stated so in (Deut 12:16). Acts 15:20 “but that we write to them that they abstain from things contaminated by idols and from fornication and from what is strangled and from blood.” Yeshua called the cupful after He blessed it, “the fruit of the vine”, Matt. 26:29 “But I say to you, I will not drink of this fruit of the vine from now on until that day when I drink it new with you in My Father’s kingdom.” If it were His blood, would He have called it fruit of the vine? Even King David referred to blood of men as not drinkable. 2Sam. 23:17 “and he said, “Be it far from me, O LORD, that I should do this. {Shall I drink} the blood of the men who went in {jeopardy} of their lives?” Therefore he would not drink it. These things the three mighty men did.”

During communion, the Catholic priest blesses the wine and bread, and it supposedly turns into blood and body, he says “Hoc est corpus meus”, which is where we get the words “hocus-pocus” from; obviously appropriate. After the bread is blessed it is put on a “monstrance”, a small stand with a cross on top and a brilliant glowing sun ray/sunburst type symbol about mid section. The people bow to this monstrance and worship it as God. Because the bread “is” God, the Catholic church in many places holds back the wine for only the priest. The reason being, if one spilled the wine they would have spilled God Himself on the floor. The round host wafer used at communion sometimes has the letters I.H.S. on it. I.H.S. stands for the ancient gods “ISIS”, “HORUS”, and “SEB”. This is one of the well known trinities of paganism.

Abracadabra was used during the Mithraic mystery mass, when they transubstantiated a sun-shaped disc of bread into the sun, and ate it.

Catholic priests hold the wafer up so it can catch the rays of the sun of which it represents to them.

According to Canon 6 the Catholics are to worship and adore the wafer and bow down to it. They also parade it around and display it as something to be adored, idolized. They even bow down to the wafer during services honoring it as their “Jesus”. Any time a person bows down or worships anything other than Yahveh, he is worshipping a demon as per: 1Cor. 10:19-20 “What do I mean then? That a thing sacrificed to idols is anything, or that an idol is anything? {No,} but {I say} that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to demons, and not to YHVH; and I do not want you to become sharers in demons.” Jer. 1:16 “And I will pronounce My judgments on them concerning all their wickedness, whereby they have forsaken Me and have offered sacrifices to other gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands.”

The people of the Catholic church are lead to believe that their “Fathers” have the spiritual authority to actually change the wine and the bread into the flesh and blood of Yeshua. That anyone who doesn’t agree with them is “cursed”. They claim to pull Jesus out of heaven each time they have mass. The Catholics who eat this other Jesus (of 2Cor. 11:4), are eating Baal, the Sun god, a symbol of Satan. For a Catholic not to participate in the sacrament of the holy Eucharist is to be eternally damned. This Mass service is not part of Adonai’s supper, it is Satan’s counterfeit. This counterfeit tradition was made official in 394 in the Roman Temple. Because of this insane belief, the following poem by an unknown author, seems very appropriate and obviously comical.

A ROMAN MIRACLE

A pretty maid , a Protestant, was to a Catholic wed;
To love all Bible truths and tales, quite early she’s been bred.
It sorely grieved her husband’s heart that she would not comply,
And join the Mother Church of Rome and heretics deny,
So by the day he flattered her, but still she saw no good
Would ever come from bowing down to idols made of wood.

The Mass, the host, the miracles, were made but to deceive;
And transubstantiation, too, she’d never dare believe.
He went to see his clergyman and told him his sad tale, “My wife is an unbeliever, sir; you can perhaps prevail.”

For all your Romish miracles my wife has strong aversion,
To really work a miracle might lead to her conversion.”
The priest went with the gentlemen, he thought to gain a prize.
He said “I will convert her, sir, and open both her eyes.”
So when they came into the house, the husband loudly cried,
“The priest has come to dine with us!” “He’s welcome, “she replied.

And when, at last, the meal was o'er, the priest at once began,
To teach his hostess all about the sinful state of man;
The greatness of our Savior's love, which Believers can't deny,
To give Himself a sacrifice and for our sins to die.
"I'll return tomorrow, lass, prepare some bread and wine;
The sacramental miracle will stop your soul's decline."

"I'll bake the bread," the lady said. "You may," he did reply,
"And when you've seen this miracle, convinced you'll be, say I."
The priest did come accordingly, the bread and wine did bless,
The lady asked, "Sir, is it changed?" The priest answered, "Yes.
It's changed from common bread and wine to truly flesh and blood;
Begorra, lass, this power of mine has changed it into God!"
So having blessed the bread and wine, to eat they did prepare,
The lady said unto the priest, "I warn you to take care,
For half an ounce of arsenic was mixed right in the batter,
But since you have its nature changed, it cannot really matter."
The priest was struck real dumb, he looked as pale as death.
The bread and wine fell from his hands and he did gasp for breath,

"Bring me my horse!" the priest cried, "This is a cursed home!"
The lady replied, "Begone; tis you who shares the curse of Rome."
The husband, too, he sat surprised, and not a word did say.
At length he spoke, "My dear," said he, "the priest has run away;
To gulp such mummery and tripe, I'm not for sure, quite able;
I'll go with you and we'll renounce this Roman Catholic fable."

Catholics sacrifice their "Jesus" over and over again each time mass is celebrated. Anyone who participates in, and accepts communion through the Catholic church, is directly opening themselves up to demons through this practice of idolatry and demon worship in the name of a false Messiah. Hebr. 9:24-28 "For Messiah did not enter a holy place made with hands, a {mere} copy of the true one, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of YHVH for us; nor was it that He should offer Himself often, as the high priest enters the holy place year by year with blood not his own. Otherwise, He would have needed to suffer often since the foundation of the world; but now once at the consummation of the ages He has been manifested to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. And inasmuch as it is appointed for men to die once and after this {comes} judgment, so Messiah also, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, shall appear a second time for salvation without {reference to} sin, to those who eagerly await Him." also 1Pet. 3:18 "For Messiah also died for sins once for all, {the} just for {the} unjust, in order that He might bring us to YHVH, having been put to death in the flesh, but made alive in the spirit;"

(Council of Trent, pg.149, Canon 5) "If anyone says that it is a deception to celebrate masses in honor of the saints and in order to obtain their intercession with God, as the Church intends, let him be anathema". Anathema means: "cursed". Does that sound like something a Biblical religious organization would say?

The idea of people eating the "flesh" of another is not new. In ancient rituals, ceremonies of transubstantiation were practiced in many nations of the old world, and found practiced in many tribes and occult religions. These ceremonies represented the "eating of the gods". Even in Rome the heathen Mithraism pagans had the Eucharist. In ancient Egypt small cakes were consecrated by the high pagan priests of Osiris and taken with wine. In Mexico, long before any Christian set foot on their soil, the people were eating small images made of flour after they were consecrated by priests, as the flesh of heathen deities. It is well documented that the pagan priests of Baal in the middle ages ate the flesh of the human and animal sacrifices given in their temples. This "priest of Baal" is the basis of where we get the term "Cahna-Bal", which we know as "cannibal", from.

In the Catholic ceremony a “round” piece of bread is placed in the recipients mouth, supposedly representing their Jesus. This bread is called “host”, from the Latin word meaning “victim” or “sacrifice”. These host occasions are claimed to have miraculous effects on people. An obvious question here is; why is the bread in any communion round, why not square, rectangular, triangular, etc. ? I believe it represents the sun, ever so subtle. When Yeshua had the pass-over meal He tore off “pieces” of bread. In Egypt little round cakes were found on many altars. In the religion of Mithraism initiates were given thin wafer like unleavened bread which symbolized the “solar disk,” like other symbols of the sun god. 2Kgs. 23:9 “Nevertheless the priests of the high places did not go up to the altar of Elohim in Jerusalem, but they ate unleavened bread among their brothers.” Solar round disc, round wafer; think about this.

Many people claim that the Roman Catholic church has changed, and that it no longer teaches the blasphemous things it held in past centuries. This is simply not true. Many things have changed since Vatican two, but there is no doubt that Romanism continues to preach a false gospel. The following is a direct quote from the 1992 New Catholic Catechism: (1129) The church affirms that for Believers the sacraments of the New Covenant are necessary for salvation” (1263) “By Baptism all sins are forgiven, original sin and all personal sins, as well as all punishment for sin” (980) “This sacrament of Penance is necessary for salvation for those who have fallen after Baptism, just as Baptism is necessary for salvation for those who have not yet been reborn” Paul talks of false teachings, like this and tells of the curse that comes upon these ungodly Roman Catholic teachers in Gal. 1:7-9 “which is {really} not another; only there are some who are disturbing you, and want to distort the gospel of Messiah. But even though we, or an angel from heaven, should preach to you a gospel contrary to that which we have preached to you, let him be accursed. As we have said before, so I say again now, if any man is preaching to you a gospel contrary to that which you received, let him be accursed.”

When Yeshua sat down with His disciples for the last supper and shared communion, it was during the evening. If this is true, and we know it is, then why do churches have communion in the morning? One must wonder what Yeshua would think if He were here today to watch a priest perform during a Catholic Mass. The pomp, vigor, and actions of the priest include kissing the altar 8 times, lifting his eyes toward heaven 11 times, striking his breast 10 times, bowing his head 21 times, blesses the altar with the sign of the cross 30 times, lays his hands flat on the altar 29 times, prays secretly 9 times, and aloud 13 times, etc. etc. etc. This is hardly what Yeshua and His followers did, and I’m sure Yeshua would laugh at this ritual if He were here in the flesh today.

COMMUNION AS PER THE BIBLE

There is a big difference between the seder supper, including the unleavened bread and wine, and what is commonly called communion. Communion is actually Yahveh’s supper as explained in 1Cor. 11:23-26 *“For I received from Yahveh that which I also delivered to you, that Yeshua in the night in which He was betrayed took bread; and when He had given thanks, He broke it, and said, “This is My body, which is for you; do this in remembrance of Me.” In the same way He took the cup also, after supper, saying, “This cup is the renewed covenant in My blood; do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me.” For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the Yeshua’s death until He comes.”

When Yeshua and His disciples partook of Yahveh’s Supper, they were indeed accepting the wine and bread as representative of the body and blood of the Messiah. They were symbolically accepting the Re-newed covenant which Yeshua, made possible at Calvary. What most don’t know is that they were also celebrating the graduation of the disciples. Yeshua had been teaching them for three full years and they were celebrating their personal Rabbinical teaching status like all good students had done for centuries.

During the Seder Supper, which takes place during the Feast of Passover, unleavened bread is always used. It is part of the symbolism associated with the passover of the death angel at the time of the exodus of the Israelites. For more details about Passover, please read the enclosed section that gives brief details about the seven feasts of Yahveh.

BREAD AND WINE

Something I just recently learned from Yah, was the fact that they took bread with yeast in it at the Yahveh’s Supper (challah), not unleavened bread. Challah is the traditional bread the Jewish people have used for centuries on Shabbats and in their Feast Services. Challah is bread that is made intertwined like a pretzel and extremely tasty. Proper communion (as per Yahveh’s Supper), is done with leaven bread (challah), and wine, not grape juice or any other substitute.

Many churches substitute grape juice instead of wine during communion. This makes Yahveh’s Supper null and void for those who do so. Yeshua specifically said “the fruit of the vine” because He was the first fruit of the new mankind. If you look closely you will see: Luke 22:17-19 “And when he had taken a cup and given thanks, he said, “Take this and share it among yourselves; for I say to you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine from now on until the kingdom of God comes.” And when He had taken some bread and given thanks, He broke it, and gave it to them, saying, “This is My body which is given for you; do this in remembrance of Me.””

For anyone who has ever made wine from scratch, it is easy to understand. When you make grape wine, or most any other wine, you must be very careful to not have the wine fermentor open to wild yeast, which is everywhere in the air. Wild yeast will start to work on its own, one needn’t add any yeast at all to get the mulch fermenting. However the properties of wild yeast and wine yeast are different. For many reasons it is important to use proper wine yeast to start wine fermenting. Either way, once the mulch is exposed to the air, it is going to start to ferment no matter how careful one is under normal circumstances. If you look at what time of year it was when the Passover meal was taken you will notice it was in the spring of the year. The only time it was possible to make grape juice, in the days of no refrigeration, was immediately after the grape harvest in the fall. If grape juice was made in the fall it couldn’t exist very long (maybe a few days) without it starting the natural fermentation process, which automatically creates alcohol. To sum it up, there is no doubt whatsoever that Yeshua used wine during the Passover Seder and Yahveh’s Supper. Any substitute makes the symbolic blood of Yeshua ineffective. One more reason why so many Christians never get the blessings Yah has available for them. They seem to stay spiritually dead. Hosea 4:6 “My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge”
