

PAX CHRISTUS

The cross on the helmet of Constantine's soldiers was the same cross that the Jesuits call the "Pax Christus" or "peace of Christ". It is a tall "P" with a large "X" across it in the middle. This cross was commonly used by Nimrod centuries before Constantine. He combined the cross of Tammuz and the cross of Christianity together to make his soldiers all happy, because half of them were steeped in Mithrasism, and the other half in the new pagan Christianity of the early church.

The papal office was produced by a mixture of paganism and Christianity there can be no doubt. The pallium, the fish-head mitre, the Babylonish garments, the mystic keys, the title Ponifex Maximus, were borrowed from paganism. All of these things, and the fact that Yeshua never instituted the office of Pope in His church, plainly show that the Pope is neither the Vicar of Christ nor the successor of the apostle Peter. I believe that the Pope represents the pagan Christianity known today as the Roman Catholic church in place of Osiris, and Nimrod. The Bible describes him clearly in Dan 11:36-39 and Rev. 13:18 "Here is wisdom. Let him who has understanding calculate the number of the beast, for the number is that of a man; and his number is six hundred and sixty-six." If then, the Pope be, as we can clearly see, the visible head of the beast, the people of this Romish church, in worshipping him, of necessity, worship also the Devil. The worship of the vast system of Rome is simply the worship of the Devil, (through Mary), or put another way, "Christianized heathenism". Popery boasts of being the "old religion"; and truly from what we have seen it is ancient indeed. It can trace its roots far beyond the era of Christianity, back over 4,000 years, to near the period of the Flood and the building of the Tower of Babel by the Baal god Nimrod.
